A Celebration of Hope, Friends and Fashion

On Sunday, May 3, Galleria welcomes breast cancer survivors, their girlfriends and families, and supporters of breast cancer research in a celebration of hope at the seventh annual Hope Chest for Breast Cancer Brunch and Fashion Show.

Over the past seven years, the celebratory brunch has become a staple for many women affected by the disease as well as many more who support finding a cure.

The informal-yet-festive spring morning begins with warm welcomes to good friends and family. Casual conversation over a delicious brunch turns to oohs and aahs as WCCO-AM's delightful Sue Zelickson and Galleria Style Specialist Rhonda Ruhland host a fashion show that highlights the spring and summer styles from Galleria. As is tradition, several of the show's models are breast cancer survivors who volunteer to show the latest fashions.

--- Over ---

The event also includes a live raffle and a chance to win prizes donated from Galleria stores.

After the event, enjoy another post-brunch tradition: shopping with the girls. That day only, many of Galleria's stores and restaurants donate a portion of sales back to Hope Chest. At the end of the day, turn in your receipts at Galleria Guest Services. For every $100 you spend you'll be entered for a chance to win an overnight stay at The Westin Edina Galleria and a $500 Galleria Shopping Spree.
